Personal style

Christine is quickly able to grasp the detail and issues involved in a conflict, while also bringing empathy and understanding to interpersonal disputes.

Feedback

'You are clearly a pro and have a super style for the work you do. I felt well guided and in a safe environment today'.

'The feedback following your mediation has been exceptional'.

'Thank you for all your help; you made everyone in the room feel at ease and comfortable with the proceedings'.

'Without you acting as a catalyst we would never have got to the point of agreement'.

'I think you were excellent and truly appreciate your support and professionalism'.

Professional experience

Christine became a solicitor in 1985. Her legal practice has included employment and sports law as well as commercial and property litigation. Until 2019, she was a partner in Hewitsons LLP and head of their London office. Before this she was joint managing partner of Moorhead James LLP, a commercial firm in the City of London which she co-founded in 1992.
